

Wait(e)s – Jordan Mystery

We don't always get the result we expected when engaging in Genetic Genealogy. Sometimes the answer is more questions. The Wait(e)s line shown here was expected to match the Culpeper Wait(e)s family. It does not, nor does it match any of the previously identified signatures for the surname. What it does match at 47-markers, is a signature for a Jordan participant in the SMGF database. Ordinarily we wouldn't think too much of the match with a different surname. However, this particular Jordan line has roots in Virginia, and possibly in Culpeper County. We are currently working on researching both lines to see if a connection exists and if either the Wait(e)s or Jordan line...or both...contain a NPE.

This second Jordan line is untested to the best of our knowledge and so far unplaced. It is referenced here only because of the similarity of names and the identical location in Culpeper County at roughly the same time.
